

Declaration Statement for English Language Ability For Students Studying at NQF Level 7 (To be signed by the student and recruitment agent)

In order to successfully complete a higher education course in the United Kingdom, students applying to study in the UK, who are not from majority English-speaking countries must demonstrate that they have sufficient English language skills to follow the academic nature of course.

SIRM defines the ideal minimum requirement for PgD courses to be between CEFR levels B2 and C1 (IELTS 6.0 or equivalent). The School of Information Risk Management (SIRM) will test the English language ability of all prospective students and will only assign a Confirmation of Acceptance for Studies once it is satisfied that the student meets the minimum competency requirements. The 12 month PgD course includes a 3 month pre-sessional English course to support and prepare students (who already meet English requirements) for language the terminology specific to their course subject
Assessment is based on a combination of the factors below.

English language certificate

Students whose test results fall below the ideal minimum may still be considered if they score highly in the interview

The School of Information Risk Management takes very seriously any attempt to fraudulently evidence English language ability. If upon registration at the college, it becomes apparent that a student does not have the competency they claimed upon application then their enrollment will be cancelled and the student's details reported to the UKBA immediately.

I have read and understood the above and confirm that the information I have provided is true and agree to provide original documents / certificates to The School of Information Risk Management upon enrollment.

I have received a copy of this declaration for my reference.
